BAYOLINE

QUININE HAIR TONIC.

Something which has long been needed.

Every day we hear of some case of paralysis, softening of the brain or some nervous disorder of the head resulting from the use of hair preparations containing lead, sulphur, bismuth, or other mineral substances ... equally poisonous. That the use of these preparations is always attended with danger is an undisputed fact, they are dyes and should not be used for dressing the hair. What has long been needed is a preparation like Bayoline, which is not a restorer or dye, contains neither lead, sulphur, bismuth or any mineral substance whatever. It is a pure and harmless hairdressing; keeps the hair from falling out, promotes its growth, eradicates dandruff, cleanses the scalp, is not greasy or sticky, does not soil and always leaves a sense of cleanliness and comfort attained by no other preparation, for its intended purposes it has never been equalled.

Prepared by LEVI TOWER, Jr., Boston. Sold everywhere by druggists, 50 cents a bottle.

SCIENTIFIC OBSERVATIONS ON MOUNT KATAHDIN.

A CONTRIBUTION TO THE BAROMETRICAL DETERMINATION OF THE ALTITUDE OF MT. KATAHDIN;—BY PROF. M. C. FERNALD, MAINE STATE COLLEGE.

A year ago last August, accompanied by Mr. F. W. Hardy of Bangor, photographer, Mr. Fred W. Holt, Mr. John M. Oak and Mr. F. Lamson Scribner, graduates of the Maine State College, Mr. Freeland Jones and Mr. Alfred M. Goodale, students in the College, the writer visited Mount Katahdin with a view to determine its altitude by barometrical observations. In the limited time then at his command he found it impracticable to secure a number of observations sufficient to give a determination of the altitude which he was willing to make public.

Last summer, (August, 1874,) he made a second visit to the mountain, with the same purpose as before, the results of which are presented in this article. Besides the writer, the party consisted of Mr. J. R. Farrington, farm superintendent of the Maine State College, Rev. W. R. Cross, J. G. Wilson, Esq., and Lieut. (now Professor) W. S. Chaplin, of Orono, Mr. F. W. Hardy and Capt. R. W. Parker, of Bangor, Mr. C. O. Farrington of Brewer, Mr. F. Lamson Scribner of Augusta, and Mr. J. C. Stacey, of Sherman, guide.

Leaving Orono on the morning of the 11th of August, the party tented near the summit on the night of the 14th, and remained at the mountain until the afternoon of the 18th of August, Mr. Hardy obtaining a number of excellent negatives for stereoscopic views, Mr. Scribner examining attentively the flora of the region and making botanical collections, and the writer devoting himself to the barometrical work. It is but just to the other gentlemen of the party to state that they rendered material assistance in the prosecution of the several kinds of work proposed.

It is the province of this article, however, to report only the barometrical observations and their reduction, together with such preliminary statements as may serve to indicate the effort made to obtain trustworthy results.

Two barometers were used, one on the summit, the other at a station of known elevation about 30 miles from the mountain. The barometer (No. 1050) at the latter station was made by Green, of New York, and was observed by B. F. Fernald, Esq., of Winn, in whose office it was suspended. The barometer at the summit of the mountain was made by Huddleston, of Boston, and although not originally designed for a mountain barometer, yet is so well provided with movable jackets of brass, by which the tube and cistern can be completely protected, as to fit it admirably for mountain use. The two instruments were carefully compared, before and after the observations and were found in both instances to be working perfectly, varying only by a slight difference in the adjustment of the scales. The readings are reduced to those of Green's barometer as the standard. The barometer at the summit was suspended from a stake safely secured and was protected by a covering of cloth (a light overcoat was used after the first three observations given in the table,) from the direct rays of the sun, and yet was so loosely covered as to admit a free circulation of air around the instrument. It was left in position during the night, and hence was constantly in condition for observations.

At the summit, forty-three observations were obtained, three of which have been rejected because not matched at Winn, and thirteen, in consequence of meteorological conditions so different at the two stations, as to produce local disturbance of the mercurial column.

On the evening of August 14th, while it was clear at the summit of the mountain, it was raining at Winn. On the morning of the 15th of August, opposing meteorological conditions also existed at the two stations, by which the mercurial column was depressed at one station, while it was rising at the other. Only the observations taken during these periods have been rejected.

It will be observed in the case of the observations submitted, the temperature of the instrument being considered, that the movements of the column at the two stations were quite largely responsive to one another, indicating that they were controlled in the main by corresponding conditions of the atmosphere. The meteorological notes recorded at the time, although few in number, indicate the same fact.

The observations have been reduced by the use of Guyot's Tables published in No. 31 of the Smithsonian Miscellaneous Collections. The "constant" employed is made up in the following manner:

Altitude of railroad track at Winn above mean tide at Bangor,	235.25 ft.
Altitude of barometer at Winn above railroad track,	15.00 ft.
Highest point of Katahdin above cistern of barometer at the summit.	7.5 ft.
Constant	257.75 ft.

The mean latitude of the two stations is approximately 45° 40'.

Assuming the observations to have the same degree of precision, the arithmetical mean of the altitudes is 5215.5 feet, and the probable error 4.2 feet; and hence the altitude of Katahdin deduced from these observations, would be written 5215.5 plus or minus 4.2 feet above mean tide at Bangor.

In furnishing for publication this record of barometrical work, the writer is not unmindful of the fact that a much larger number of observations is desirable, in order to secure the highest degree of accuracy attainable by the barometric method, he does not however hesitate to make even a brief contribution to the subject, since he is not aware that a determination of the altitude of Katahdin has before been made, based upon observations comparable in number with those it was his fortune to obtain.

STRUGGLING WITH THE OCEAN.

[From the N. Y. Herald.]

When it was announced in the city this morning that an American seaman had in the gale of Tuesday night jumped overboard from a transatlantic liner and, after swimming for seven hours, had landed on the Skibbereen coast, people, while quite prepared to give Americans credit for doing big things, were yet unprepared for such a demand on their credulity as this. The thing, however, was done, and the hero of it was Captain Paul Boynton of the New Jersey Lifeguards, Atlantic City. This gentleman, a professional diver of well known daring, left New York about a fortnight ago in the National Company's steamer Queen, taking with him a patent swimming costume. It was Captain Boynton's intention when from two to three hundred miles distant from New York to jump overboard and swim back, but the commander of the steamer was a man of little faith and vetoed the experiment. Captain Boynton had therefore to remain an involuntary passenger until the vessel approached the Irish coast on Tuesday evening, when the commander having been repeatedly importuned, gave his permission.

Captain Boynton drew on his India rubber airtight suit and inflated the air chambers. In his air tight sack he placed food for three days, a compass, a bull's eye lantern, some books (just to beguile the time on the water), some signal rockets and a United States flag. In his inside pocket he placed a small watch the passengers had given him to post, he strapped his bowie knife and axe to his side and grasping his paddle was lowered into the water, amid the cheers of the passengers, at half-past nine o'clock P. M.

It was a wild, dark night. He was close to the Fastnet rock, with Cape Clear three miles from him, and Baltimore, toward which he intended to make, was in a direct line seven miles away. He lay on his back paddling vigorously, and now the lights of the vessel were lost in the night. In a quarter of an hour more his spirit almost quailed, when tossed high on the crest of a wave he could no longer see the coast line or any lights. The wind blew, the rain poured down and the tide set against him.

He was drifting out to sea, and to add to the awful loneliness of his situation and to increase the dreadful peril, a violent gale commenced. That night for many hours no mail boat crossed the Irish Channel and great destruction was done on the coast. And through those awful hours of darkness this man was tossing about at the mercy of the waves some fifteen miles from land. The wind was so violent that he had to give over paddling, and with one hand to shade his face (the only part of his body exposed) from the cutting blast. Once his paddle was wrenched away by a heavy sea, but it fortunately came into his hand again. For several seconds a wave would completely submerge him, then he would shoot on the crest and take breath before he was again buried down a sloping mass of water which seemed 100 feet to the bottom. As a result of the tossing he became seasick, a thing, he says, which never happened to him before. His indomitable spirit however, conquered everything, and about one o'clock the wind began to blow directly on shore. His paddle was plied vigorously, and at three o'clock on Wednesday morning he perceived he was near breakers and rock bound coast west of Skibbereen loomed up before him. His danger now was not less than it was during the height of the gale, for as a wave would raise him almost on a level with the cliff tops he could discern nothing but a threatening wall of rock. He made his way along parallel to the coast, and fortunately lighted upon almost the only safe landing place for miles round. He saw an opening in the cliffs and propelled himself cautiously toward it. While hesitatingly examining the entrance a sea struck him carrying him on; another and another followed in quick succession, and, in an almost senseless state, he was hurled high and dry upon the beach. It was then four o'clock in the morning, and he had been nearly seven hours on the water, travelling a distance of thirty miles. The apparatus had behaved admirably; and having divested himself of it he stood quite dry in his navy uniform, which he wore beneath.

That having been done he let off one of his signal rockets without effect. It showed him, however, a narrow path in the rocks. Up this he clambered and got on to a mountain road, which brought him to the coastguard station. He was hospitable received there and discovered that the place he had landed at was Trafaska Bight, some miles east, and south of Baltimore. During the morning he reached Skibbereen and posted the letters intrusted to him and arrived in Cork on Wednesday night, where he is now the hero of the hour. On Monday he intends to swim out of Queenstown harbor some distance; that will be followed the week after by a little swim across the Straits of Dover to Calais towed by a kite; and to cap all, on his return to the States he intends to carry out his original idea of jumping overboard at 250 miles from land and swimming to New York or Long Island. After his achievements in the great gale on Tuesday night these last-named experiments, startling as they seem at first, cannot be regarded as impossible.—

Shortly afterwards he left home to follow the sea and was last heard from in South America five years ago.

DEATH OF BISHOP BACON. Our despatches of Friday announced the death of Bishop Bacon, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Maine and New Hampshire.

Bishop Bacon was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1811. He was educated at Montreal and Baltimore, graduating at St. Mary's College in the latter city in about 1830, where he was ordained and began his life work in the cathedral at Baltimore. He was soon transferred to St. Joseph's church in New York city, and subsequently to Ogdensburg, N. Y. After remaining there a short time he was recalled to St. Joseph's. Shortly after he was sent to Brooklyn, where he built the church "Star of the Sea," and subsequently the Church of the Assumption.

When Maine and New Hampshire were formed into a diocese in 1855, he had displayed such rare ability as an organizer that he was wisely set apart for its Bishop. The balance of his busy life he has spent in this diocese.

When the diocese was formed there were but five priests in it and only a few missions. At present there are 53 priests in the diocese and the communicants of the church number 80,000. About the middle of the summer Bishop Bacon set out for Rome. His health was somewhat impaired by his incessant labor, and he hoped to obtain relief. His disease, that of the bladder, assumed a violent type during the passage out, and when he undertook the homeward voyage, he was near to death.

Kate Connors, a notorious character in Jersey City, was arrested to-day, charged with causing the death of John O'Keefe. O'Keefe and Kate had a fight, in which she threw him down, causing internal injuries, from which he died.

MONDAY NOVEMBER 9 1874

THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS.

While we have seen no disposition in any quarter to underestimate the extent of the reverses encountered by the Republican party in the November elections, we find that many of the more sagacious journals are already cautioning their readers against entertaining exaggerated and erroneous ideas of the political significance and consequences of the stampede. Nearly a week has passed and although the field is so broad that some of the details are still in doubt, yet there has nowhere appeared any tangible evidence that the masses of the people are abandoning Republican principles or indorsing the dogmas of Democracy. On the contrary it is so plainly seen that such is not the case that the more prudent of the Democratic leaders are warning their followers that they must still be discreet and urging them not to throw off the mask entirely on the strength of the recent successes. They know that the loss of the control of the House is no uncommon [illegible] in the middle of an administration and that the depression resulting from the panic has had more to do with the votes than political opinions. Few parties could have weathered the storm of such a financial panic as that of last year and the opposition of every class have made a careful use of the resulting hard times, the dissensions and dissatisfactions of a party long in power and hostility of the outs against the ins as reinforcements of their vigorous canvass on local issues. The Democracy have been successful in different localities on the most conflicting platforms and declarations of policy and are already quarreling as to the [illegible] of [illegible]. When they go into a national campaign on a national platform they [illegible] and [illegible] in New York and [illegible] in Ohio and proclaim their [illegible] to equal rights in Massachusetts while [illegible] for a White man's government in Louisiana. In the meantime they have several [illegible] on their hands which will prove uncomfortably heavy in the course of two years while the people will be considering the Presidential election with more seriousness than has entered into the recent canvass. We have been relieved of some burdensome loads and our opponents have [illegible] an equivalent amount of [illegible] on their own shoulders. The Republicans have only to [illegible] the best use of [illegible] by the experience of the [illegible] to [illegible] the best men to the front and to stand fast by the principles of nationality, sound finance and [illegible] to regain the popular support which has responded in much darker hours than the present and which is but apparently diverted. Our duty now is to look the [illegible] in the face, to consider the mistakes of the past, examine the weak points in our armor, to [illegible] the fact that the efforts of our great national struggle are still [illegible] and ready to [illegible] the party for the [illegible] of the people for the national [illegible] of 1876.

We give below a summary of the results of the election in the various States compiled from what [illegible] information received:—

Alabama elected a full State ticket, a Legislature and 8 members of Congress—the latter [illegible] now standing 3 Republicans and 5 Democrats. In 1872 the last election for Governor [illegible] majority [illegible] the State by [illegible] majority, with a gain of [illegible] Congressmen.

Arkansas lost [illegible] members of Congress. The present delegation [illegible] and [illegible] Rep. [illegible] the latest reports [illegible] the delegation [illegible].

Delaware elected a Governor, Legislature and one member of Congress, the present member being a Republican. The Legislature will choose a successor to Senator Bayard, Democrat. The State was badly carried for Grant in 1872. [illegible] majority for Congress [illegible] 35. It has always been a Democratic stronghold and they have elected a Democratic Governor, Congressman and Legislature by a small majority. Bayard will probably be returned to the Senate.

Florida elected Congressmen. The delegation being now Republican and a Legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Gilbert, Republican. The State has been carried for Grant giving Grant only [illegible] majority in 1872. A number of Constitutional amendments were also voted on—providing biennial sessions of Legislature, limiting the power to contract debt, forbidding State aid to railroads, etc. and providing that corporations shall be taxed. The Republicans claim both Congressmen, the Democrats claim the Legislature and report on amendments.

Georgia elected Congressmen only, the present delegation standing 2 Republicans and 7 Democrats. The State is overwhelmingly Democratic, giving a majority of over 58,000 for Governor in 1872, and 9 Democrats are chosen to Congress.

Illinois elected State Treasurer and Superintendent of Public Instruction, representatives to the Legislature, one-half of the State Senate and 19 Congressmen, the present delegation being 14 Republicans and 5 Democrats. There were four tickets in the field—Republican, Democratic, Independent and Prohibition, the Democrats and Independents uniting in most of the Congressional Districts. The State has always been strongly Republican, but the party was much weakened by the running of additional tickets. The Republicans elected their State ticket and 9 Congressmen. The Legislature is claimed Republican on joint ballot.

Kansas chose a full State ticket, Legislature and three Congressmen, the present delegation being Republican. There were Republican, Democratic and Temperance tickets. The Republican majority for Governor in 1872 was 20,023. In the local elections last year the opposition carried the State by over 3,000 majority. This year the Republicans have a majority of over 10,000, and on all but two candidates on State ticket a majority of 10,000 to 18,000. The Democrats claim 1 Congressman. The Republicans have a two thirds majority in the Legislature.

Kentucky voted for members of Congress only, the present delegation consisting of ten Democrats. This is the "dark and bloody ground" and any change would be astonishing. The Republicans had made nominations only in five Districts, opposing Democratic candidates running in the remainder. The status of the delegation is unchanged.

Louisiana voted on Monday for State Treasurer, a Legislature to choose a U. S. Senator to fill the term expiring in 1879, and 6 members of Congress, the present delegation being Republican. Propositions were also submitted limiting the State debt to $15,000,000, forbidding any increase of the debt of the city of New Orleans, and for changing the time of annual elections from Monday to Tuesday as in other States. The Warmoth count claimed a Democratic majority of 10,000 in 1872, while the Kellogg returns claimed a Republican majority of 18,811. The State was first claimed by the Democrats on Tuesday, but soon after came threats against the State officials which looked like distrust of the Democratic claims. The latest reports claim the State Republican by 4,000 to 10,000 with 3 Rep. Congressmen, a majority in the Legislature and adoption of the amendment, though the returns are incomplete.

Maryland elected only Congressmen, the present delegation being two Republicans and four Democrats. The Democratic majority in 1873 was 19,983. The entire Democratic delegation is elected.

Massachusetts elected a full State ticket, a Legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Washburn, and eleven members of Congress, the delegation being now entirely Republican. Beside the two leading parties there was a Labor Reform State ticket. In 1872 the Republican majority for Governor was 128,3[illegible]. The prohibition issue was prominent in the canvass, the Republican candidate Talbot, being a pronounced radical and having vetoed bills abolishing the State Constabulary at the last session. The Democrats elected William Gaston, their candidate for Governor by 6,000 to 7,000 majority, but the Republicans have elected the rest of the ticket and the Council and have a majority of about 60 on joint ballot in the Legislature insuring a Republican Senator. The Republicans lost 6 Congressmen: 4 Democrats and 2 Independents being elected. The defeated candidates were Gooch, Butler, Ayer, Williams, Stevens and Alexander. The delegation stands:

1—James Buffinton Rep. 7—John K. Tarbox Dem.
2—Benj. W. Harris Rep. 8—Wm. W. Warren Dem.
3—Henry L. Pierce Rep. 9—Geo. F. Hoar Rep.
4—Rufus S. Frost Rep. 10—Julius H. Seelye Ind.
5—Nath'l P. Banks, Ind. 11—C. W. Chapin Dem.
6—C. I. Thompson Dem.

Michigan elected State officers, a Legislature which is to name a successor to Senator Chandler, Rep. and 9 Congressmen, the present delegation being entirely Republican. There were Republican, Democratic, Reform and Prohibition tickets in the field, the Democrats and Reformers uniting on Congressmen and part of the State ticket. The Prohibitionists had candidates for Congress in the First, Third and Fifth Districts. The Republican majority for Governor in 1872 was 57,098. The people also voted on the amended Constitution which, among other provisions prohibits State, county and municipal aid to corporations. The Republicans made a gallant fight against the combined opposition and carried the State by 3,000 with a Republican Legislature which will doubtless return Senator Chandler. The Democrats gain 7 Congressmen.

Minnesota elected a Chief and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, a Legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Ramsey, Rep. and 3 Congressmen, the present delegation being entirely Republican. The Republican majority for Governor [illegible] was 5,[illegible]. The latest returns give the Republicans all 3 Congressmen and a majority of 25 in the Legislature on joint ballot. The Judiciary vote not reported.

Missouri elected a full State ticket, a Legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Schurz, Liberal, and 13 Congressmen. The present delegation stands 9 Dem. and 4 Rep. The Republicans had made no State nominations, the contest being between the Democratic and People's tickets. The Democrats had a majority of [illegible] for Governor in 1872. The question of holding a Constitutional Convention was also voted on. The Democrats have carried the State, elected the Congressmen and have a majority [illegible] Legislature, which defeats Senator Schurz.

Nevada elected a full State ticket, a Legislature controlling the succession to Senator Stewart, Rep. and one member of Congress, the present member being a Democrat. The present Governor is a Democrat [illegible] majority of 10[illegible] and Grant had a majority of [illegible] in 1872. There were Republican, Democratic and Independent tickets and the canvass has been warm. The Republicans claim the election of the entire State ticket with the exception of Governor and Lieut. Governor. They also claim a majority of 10 to [illegible] on joint ballot in the Legislature and have elected their Congressman.

New Jersey voted for Governor, Assembly, State Senators and 7 Congressmen, the present delegation being [illegible] Rep. and 1 Dem. The Legislature is to choose a successor to Senator Stockton, Dem. In 1871 the Democrats had 5,[illegible] majority for Governor and Grant had 15,000 majority in 1872. The people also voted upon several amendments to the Constitution, one of which contains a prohibition against special legislation including one against special acts of incorporation. The Democrats claim a State majority of 10,000, a majority in the Legislature and [illegible] Congressmen.

New York elected a full State ticket, a Legislature which will govern the succession to Senator Fenton, Liberal, 33 members of the next Congress and 2 to fill vacancies in the present delegation which stood 24 Rep. and 9 Dem. Several important Constitutional amendments were also voted upon. There were three tickets—the Republican headed by John A. Dix, who has filled the office of Governor with unsurpassed ability and unquestioned integrity, the Democratic, headed by Samuel J. Tilden, who was Tweed's political manager, and who has worked with John Morrissey for the restoration of the Ring overthrown in 1871, and the Prohibition, headed by Myron H. Clark, who has permitted his name to be used in a manner to weaken the Republicans and help Tammany. In 1872 Governor Dix and President Grant carried the State by over 53,000 and in 1873 the Democrats elected a Secretary of State by [illegible]. The Ring candidates have captured the State by a majority nearly equal to that of the Republicans in 1872. The Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot and the Congressional delegation stands 16 Democrats, 15 Republicans, 2 Independents. Tweed's release is only needed to complete the Tammany restoration. The temperance vote is not reported.

Pennsylvania elected a Lieutenant Governor and other minor State officers, a Legislature that will name a successor to Senator Scott, Rep., and 27 members of Congress, the present delegation being 22 Rep. and 5 Dem. This was the first election under the new apportionment of Congressional Districts in [illegible] of which Independent and Prohibition candidates were nominated. The Prohibitionists had also a State ticket in the field. In 1872 the Republican majority for Governor Hartranft was 35,5[illegible], it being a Presidential year. The Democrats claim a majority of several thousands on the State ticket, control of the Legislature, and 17 of the 27 Congressmen. The depression of the iron trade in this State exerted a powerful influence.

Rhode Island re-elected her Republican delegation of 2 Congressmen, the Democrats making slight efforts at opposition.

South Carolina elected a Governor, etc., members of Legislature, and five Congressmen, the delegation now being entirely Republican. A bolt was made against the regular Republican nomination and the bolting ticket was supported by the Conservatives under the head of Reform. Three Constitutional amendments were also submitted. In 1872 the Republican majority for Governor was 35,045. The administration then elected has proved very obnoxious, but the present Republican candidates are pledged to inaugurate a genuine reform. The Republicans have carried the State by a majority estimated at 20,000, and claim the election of all 5 Congressmen.

Tennessee elected a Governor, a Legislature which will fill Senator Brownlow's place, and 10 Congressmen, the present delegation being 7 Rep. and 3 Dem. Republican, Democratic and Workingmen's tickets were in the field. In 1872 the Democrats elected a Governor by 13,580 majority, and they now claim 40,000, a large majority in the Legislature, and 8 of the 10 Congressmen.

Texas elected Congressmen only, the present delegation of six being entirely Democratic. The Republicans made nominations in only four of the Districts. This State gave Greeley a majority of 10,078 in 1872. We have no definite returns, but the State is overwhelmingly Democratic on all the tickets.

In the Vermont Second Congressional District special election, D. C. Denison, Rep., was elected over I. P. Poland, Rep., and A. McLane, Dem.

Virginia elected Congressmen only, the present delegation standing 4 Republicans and 5 Democrats. In the Second District there were Republican, Democratic and Independent candidates, and in the Fourth Republican and Independent. In 1873 the Democratic majority for Governor was 27,239. Several Constitutional amendments were also voted upon. The Republicans have elected 2 Congressmen and claim more. The returns are incomplete.

Wisconsin elected a Legislature which is to name a successor to Senator Carpenter, Rep., and 8 Congressmen, the present delegation standing 6 Rep. and 2 Dem. The tickets were Republican and Reform, the latter comprising all classes of the opposition. In 1873 the opposition elected a Governor by 15,412. A vote was also taken whether to so amend the Constitution that counties and towns shall be prohibited from incurring debts exceeding five per cent of their assessed valuation. The Republicans of this State have behaved handsomely, overcoming the opposition vote of last year, regaining control of the Legislature by a decisive majority and retaining their relative strength in Congressmen.

In Washington Territory the Republicans gain a Delegate by a majority of over 500.

The above reports and estimates as to Congressmen are largely received through Democratic sources and likely to be modified by complete returns. There are quite a number of members elected over the regular Republican nominees who will probably decline voting with the Democrats on questions involving Republican principles, but classing all the opposition together the anti-Republican majority of the [illegible] members elected prior to and on last Tuesday would be 57. Adding the delegations yet to be elected as they now stand 13 Rep. to [illegible] Dem., the opposition majority would be 48. It may prove to be more or less on the official count, but the Democrats have secured control of the next House of Representatives and then [illegible] what they will do with it.

DEMOCRACY

In his famous Brodhead letter which gained Frank P. Blair the Democratic nomination for Vice President in 1868 he declared that the only way for the party to obtain full control of the Congress would be for the Democratic President to employ the national military forces to overthrow the reconstruction acts. The following is an extract from that epistle:

There is but one way to restore the Government and the Constitution and that is for the President-elect to declare these acts null and void, compel the army to undo its usurpations at the South, disperse the carpet-bag governments and elect Senators and Representatives. The House of Representatives will contain a majority of Democrats and they will admit the Representatives elected by the South and with the aid of the President it will not be difficult to [illegible] obedience to the Constitution.

The sentiments elicited the enthusiastic endorsement of the Bourbon Democracy and carried his nomination by storm. Since then the party have tried to repudiate his doctrines and have even gone so far as to support Horace Greeley for President, but under the surface there has been no change. As an evidence that the spirit of the party to-day is what it was in 1868 we may quote an extract from the late speech of George Ticknor Curtis on the shining lights of Democracy which was read at the Tammany Hall meeting at the Manhattan Club last week. It will be seen that his idea of the first duty of the party coincides with that of Blair six years ago. He proposes to wipe out what he calls the unconstitutional legislation of the past twelve years but, as he declares, it is unwilling [illegible] to wait for a legal and constitutional restoration of its authority. In place of the Courts he appeals to a Democratic majority in Congress to decide upon the validity of laws and to sweep away at once whatever they may disapprove. We quote his language:

A single word in regard to the first of these great reforms. There is a large mass of legislation now on the statute book chiefly put there for party purposes which is either palpably and plainly unconstitutional or at least of very doubtful constitutional validity. I should be disposed to challenge the wisdom of saving this legislation to be worked out from the statute-book by the slow process of judicial determination. A very large part of it ought to be dealt with in a very different way, and I should hope that as soon as there is a Democratic Congress there will be either through a commission or by the proper action of the judiciary committees an immediate and searching inquiry into the constitutional validity of the legislation of the past twelve years that is now in force and that the whole of it that is found to be a usurpation of powers never granted to the Federal Government be swept away at once.

NEW HAMPSHIRE TEMPERANCE MEN

The New Hampshire Statesman says it will be remembered that the Republicans were defeated in New Hampshire last spring by the refusal of several thousand temperance men to support the Republican candidate for Governor, because they thought prohibition was not executed well enough. The result was that not only was a Democratic candidate and Legislature elected, but the prohibitory law itself would have been repealed had not the Republican members rallied unitedly to its support, aided by about a dozen of the 160 Democratic members of the Legislature who refused to follow their leaders. These transactions have opened the eyes of the most obtuse, and the result is that at the late meeting of the Grand Division of Sons of Temperance of New Hampshire it was almost unanimously resolved to discountenance any third temperance party hereafter, and unite with the Republicans in redeeming the State from a party which in New Hampshire is not only nearly unitedly in favor of license but does all it can to prevent any enforcement of prohibition.

Amid the throng of rejoicing Democrats there is one who stands solemn and silent. It is our old acquaintance the Arithmetic Man of the N. Y. World. For once there is no occasion for his mathematical romancing and he gazes with disgust at Democratic majorities whose reality robs them of all delight for him. For this season his "occupation's gone" but if those sharpened pencils are carefully laid aside there will be a chance to use them in some enticingly tough problems before the end of 1876.

A Washington special says the Democratic leaders there openly boast that they do not intend to seat in the next Congress any of the Republican Congressmen who are elected by very small majorities. They insist that the arbitrary power of party discipline will be used to refuse such Republicans seats. The noted Thos. Florence, Democrat, who was defeated in a strong Republican district in Philadelphia by 1400 majority, is already preparing papers to contest the election of his Republican opponent, and claims that the Democratic party will give him the seat.

It is the New York Tribune which says that Mr. Joseph E. McDonald, a Democratic candidate for the Indiana Senatorship, if reports are true, is swallowing his principles for the sake of the office. He has been an open and avowed anti-inflationist, but it is now announced that, fearing his sound ideas on the currency question will defeat him, he has declared that he stands by the Democratic platform, that is in favor of the most abominable inflation ideas.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL

The Republican State Committee in Arkansas estimate that, if there is a fair count, the Republicans will have two, if not three, of the Congressmen for that State.

The Binghampton Republican wants to know if John Morrissey demands the Senatorship, what the Democracy are going to do about it. This is a startling question.

The New York Times says that Governor elect Tilden is already overwhelmed with applications for the dozen small offices in his gift. Nine-tenths of these are from "members of the Liberal Republican party."

Warden Rice of the Maine State Prison visited Boston last week at the request of Governor Talbot, to consult with the Governor and other State officers of Massachusetts relative to the plans of the new Prison to be built in that State.

The public debt was reduced last month over half a million dollars and the Secretary of the Treasury has called for $5,000,000 to be redeemed Feb. 3. Thus is the public debt being gradually but surely reduced, and yet our Democratic friends are not happy.

The Boston Advertiser coincides with our characterization of the November reverse as a political Bull Run, saying "The defeat of the Republican party and of the Administration last Tuesday may be compared to the loss of a battle. It is not the close of the war."

The Washington Chronicle [illegible] out to be out done in wild political speculation calculates the prospect of Jeff Davis being elected President by the next House of Representatives.—Boston Journal.

And how many of the Democratic members just elected does the Journal believe would object to voting for him if they had the chance?

Elisha H. Allen, formerly a member of Congress from this district, now Chancellor of the Hawaiian kingdom, and who is accredited special envoy to Washington with power to negotiate a reciprocity treaty between Hawaii and the United States, and Henry [illegible] Carter, a prominent citizen of that country, have arrived at San Francisco. The King himself is coming the last of November.

What does the Worcester Spy think of the skeleton jaws of the old Democratic party about these days? They are strong enough to chaw up a pretty big chunk of radicalism certainly.—Boston Post.

Ever since those jaws attempted to chaw up the Union our respect for them has been very small. Their attempt to chaw up radicalism will succeed no better. The old skeleton to which they belong is a remarkable thing we admit, but its present rattling motion is wholly galvanic.—Worcester Spy.

The Boston Post has a grudge against Congressman Pierce on account of the post office extension which compelled the removal of the Post building and having failed to defeat him it resorted to personal abuse after the election. At which the Herald remarks:

Pshaw Post. Don't get angry when you have so much to be thankful for? You are excited. Too much balm. Go home and take a nap. Pierce is a good fellow. Don't you see the people are looking at you?

FOURTH ENTERTAINMENT Jan. 20th
LECTURE BY
Rev. W. H. H. Murray,
of Boston. His new lecture entitled "Loyalty."
Rev. Mr. Murray is well known and the mention of his name is sufficient.

FIFTH ENTERTAINMENT, Feb. 11th
Flotow's Opera of "Martha,"
By the Boston English Opera Company, consisting of MISS CLARA B. NICKELS (Soprano) as Lady Harriet
MRS. FLORA E. BARRY (Contralto) as Nancy
MR. CHAS. H. CLARK (Tenore) as Lionel
MR. E. S. PAYSON (Basso) as Lord Tristam, Plunkett.
MR. J. A. HOWARD, Pianist

The opera will be presented with full and elegant costumes, and in all respects, save chorus and orchestra, the work will be presented as upon the Italian or English stage. The story with the exception of a few lines of dialogue, will be told entirely by music. This entertainment has met with universal success wherever it has been given as the following notices will attest.

The Boston Opera Company is composed of excellent artists. Aside from their histrionic ability, they are musicians in the fullest sense of the word. It is something unusual to hear a quartette of vocalists so evenly balanced. The music of Martha seems to be peculiarly adapted to the Company, and to say that the opera is from beginning to end given with a just spirit of conception and a faultless execution, is but to speak the conviction of every honest musician.—Gazette, St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 4 1874.

We have but one thing to say of the rendition of the Opera of Martha last night, and that is that it was a grand and unparalleled success—a success in each and every feature. Everybody was immensely pleased.—Times, Leavenworth, Sept. 6, 1874.

THE ARREST OF MARSHAL SEELYE AND LIEUT HODGSON

MONROE Nov 7 The deputy sheriff of Lincoln parish came in yesterday afternoon with warrants for the arrest of Marshal Seelye and Lieut. Hodgson, from Judge Trimble [illegible] District Judge for contempt of court in refusing to obey a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Trimble in the case of the prisoners from Claiborne parish last week. Lieut. Hodgson was arrested at the Washita House and Marshal Seelye who was in the hotel made his escape, when the sheriff's posse divided and went in different directions. One squad to the house of J T Ludeling ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State. One of the posse states that Ludeling met the posse on the piazza and said Seelye was not in the house, that he had been there half an hour before but had gone off [illegible] not know where. Ludeling said that Seelye came to ask for legal advice and he advised him to surrender, and that owing to his position [illegible] he did not want anything to do with it. The posse insisted [illegible] his house and [illegible] went [illegible] down stairs [illegible] door leading up stairs was found locked. The posse [illegible] going [illegible] and after considerable delay, Mrs Ludeling produced the key. The posse searched up stairs and found [illegible] They then [illegible] which was dark as midnight [illegible] Seelye his clothes badly soiled with plaster. He surrendered and was dismissed [illegible] down stairs almost fainting. Judge Ludeling refreshed him with a glass of brandy. Seelye begged for protection and was assured [illegible] the posse that not a hair of his head [should] be hurt. When told by young Sholars, son of Dr Sholars arrested by Seelye last week [illegible] my old faith [illegible] Lieut Hodgson. They are both en route to [Vienna] to answer to Judge Trimble. It is probable that indictments will be found against both for cutting telegraph wires.

FURTHER REPORTS [illegible]

NEW ORLEANS Nov 7 Thirty men of company B 3d Infantry [illegible] command left here this forenoon for Lincoln parish. It is said that a body of cavalry is ordered from Shreveport to the same parish [for what] purpose is not known. Marshal Seelye and Lieut. Hodgson arrested for con[tempt] of Judge Trimble's Court have reached [illegible] and are awaiting the Judge's ac[tion]. Sheriff Kavanagh of Jackson arrested D M Jewett U S Commissioner, this fore[noon] on a warrant issued by Judge Trimble based upon an indictment found by the Grand Jury of [illegible] for kidnapping Dr Louis Sholars. Jewett furnished bonds in the sum of $1,000. It is said that Marshal Seelye will also be arrested when he is [illegible] warrant from Jackson and will be held for cutting the telegraph wires and other violations of the laws.

LIEUT HODGSON AND MARSHAL SEELYE SENTENCED

MONROE Nov 7 Lieut. Hodgson and Marshal Seelye appeared before Judge Trimble at Vienna this forenoon charged with con[tempt] of court in disregarding the writ of habeas corpus issued by the Judge. The [judgment] of the Court as to both was 10 days imprisonment in the parish jail, a fine of $100 and the costs of the arrests. The [illegible] [telegraph] wire will come up next. It is rumored that pardons have been forwarded by Kel[logg for] Seelye and Hodgson. The average Democratic majority in Catahoula is 7[illegible]

ARRESTS MADE IN NEW IBERIA

NEW IBERIA Nov 7 [illegible] Edward Voorhees Adolph Patterson and Oscar Durant, arrested for violating the enforcement act in St Martin's parish on Wednesday [illegible] here to-morrow [illegible] with Deputy Marshal [illegible] to appear before the United States District Court [illegible] having waived examination, before the Court and failed to furnish bail.

JUDGE TRIMBLE CLOTHES THE [illegible] OF THE NATIONS—THE [illegible] ALLEGED

NEW ORLEANS Nov 7 Judge Trimble urges the Governor to recall the pardons [grant]ed in the cases of Seelye and Lieut. Hodgson committed for contempt, for the reason that their conduct in several instances was outrageous and oppressive, the citizens feeling that they have been outraged by these parties and indignant at their course while securing the country. The Judge is satisfied that if the law takes its course, not only in the case of their contempt of his order, but also in cutting telegraph wires in assault with a pistol on Mrs. Patterson and other cases the people will abide the action of the Court but if pardoned and turned at liberty he is of the opinion that they could not leave the country so great would be the feeling against the prisoners. Before leaving Vienna, the judge took [every] precaution to insure their safety while in jail, where Seelye and Hodgson placed their prisoners arrested without a warrant and by the mere force of U S bayonets. Much excitement prevails in North Louisiana and there is a full determination on the part of the citizens to assist Judge Trimble in carrying out the law, which he will do.

NEW YORK, Nov 7 A London special states that Gladstone has issued an anti-papal manifesto, in which he declares that the dogma of papal infallibility is totally inconsistent with good citizenship. He says the Catholic emancipation act was passed under the belief that the Catholic would give his allegiance to the Queen, but it is now known that his first allegiance is to the Pope. The manifesto denies that the Pope gains converts among the people. His conversions are among the sick. It says He may control acres but cannot control the heart of the poor. The manifesto refers to the religious condition of Ireland and says Under recent legislation all that was due to Ireland had been paid, henceforth that country will be treated without reference to Catholicism. His ideas are pronounced and vigorous, and immense audiences have listened to him wherever he has been. As this is without doubt the only time he will ever speak in Bangor, none should fail to see and hear this remarkable man.

—The Ellsworth American says that at the present session of the Supreme Judicial Court, the members of the Hancock County Bar, presented to the Judge presiding, Hon Jonas Cutting of Bangor, an elegant gold-headed cane, as a testimonial of their high regard and appreciation of the man and his long service upon the Supreme Judicial Bench. Judge Cutting is now 74 years of age, has occupied his present position 21 years, and his term of office will expire in April next.

—A large audience was present at the Central Congregational church last evening, on the occasion of the regular monthly Sunday school concert. The exercises by the children, under the direction of Mr. M. H. Angell, Superintendent, were of much interest. An address was made by the Rev. Dr Taft, in which he gave a clear and interesting presentation of the importance of a high standard in life, and of the preeminence of goodness as compared with intellectual and physical greatness.

THE PERFORMANCE AT ORONO. The second entertainment given at the Town Hall in Orono, on Saturday night, by the ladies and young people of the Methodist Society, was well attended and fully enjoyed by the large audience. The farce entitled Seeing the Elephant, was first on the programme, followed by the Gipsey Queen, sung in costume by Miss Hattie Lord and Mr A Lewis. By request the drama entitled Among the Breakers, was repeated with the same cast as on the preceding evening. The pleasure of the evening was largely enhanced by the excellent performances of the Cole [illegible] orchestra.

THE NEW SCHOOL-HOUSE. The joint standing committee on public schools, consisting of Dr Isaac Strickland of the Board of Aldermen, and the Messrs Charles V Lord and B A Burr, of the Common Council have returned from Boston, where they went for the purpose of procuring plans, estimate and general information, with a view to the erection of a school-house on the corner of Union and Fourth streets. The result of their visit was entirely satisfactory and [illegible] they were [illegible] Boston they were the recipients of every courtesy from the [illegible] including the Superintendent of Public Institutions and from Mr Clough the city architect, whose native place is Blue Hill in this State.

[THE EXCURSION OVER THE] [illegible] RAILROAD

EXCURSION FOR RAILROAD OFFICIALS AND MEMBERS OF THE CITY GOVERNMENT TO [illegible] THE EXTENSION [illegible]

At [illegible] Saturday morning [illegible] and [illegible] of the European and North American railway [illegible] of the City Government [illegible] Bangor for a trip over the [illegible] railroad by invitation of Pres[ident] Jewett [illegible] of the gentlemen present, the party are as follows [illegible]

[illegible] John Ward [illegible] G Clark [illegible]

[illegible] the train [illegible] arrived at [illegible] The object of the excursion was to enable the City Government [illegible] to Abbot [illegible] of the [illegible] contractor [illegible] which were [illegible] each [illegible] with [illegible] of the track to [illegible] the [illegible] way to Abbot station.

Mr Charles H Sawyer is the contractor [illegible] was commenced about [illegible] weeks ago and as many as five hundred men have been employed on the line. About two hundred men are now at work, the principal difficulties [illegible] being [illegible] Richards [illegible] Daniel McD[illegible] and [illegible] Emery Superintendents of Ledge Work [illegible] Chief Carpenter Ira [illegible] Estabrook of Oldtown foreman of Bridge Building, Joseph Bassett Superintendent of track laying W [illegible] Superintendent of track laying Peter Burroughs [illegible] of loading sleepers and iron. W B Chase [illegible] contractor. The earth is removed by the yard for which John Ward has the principal contract having twenty horses and two hundred men at work. Wages are low [illegible] $1.50, for ledge work, $1.75 [illegible] $3 per diem.

The work has not only been expeditiously done but the critical gentlemen who examined the road bed, bridging culverts, grading and everything else visible in connection with the line expressed satisfaction at the substantial excellence of the road. A neat depot has been built at the Abbott terminus, which is at some distance north east of the upper village but is designed more especially for the accommodation of adjacent towns which will use it as a shipping point. An engine house will be built near by and will be ready for occupancy as soon as the track is laid through.

The distance from Abbot depot to West Cove on Moosehead Lake is 22 miles and when the road is finished will have a large business from summer and pleasure travel, and will do an excellent thing in lumber freights as there are parties in Bangor who have agreed to build large mills on the Lake as soon as the road reaches West Cove.

It is hoped to finish blasting, grading and tracklaying to Abbott within the next fortnight but even with bad weather, Mr Sawyer expresses confidence that it can be done within a month, which is not without foundation, considering the rapidity with which he has already pushed the rails along.

The officers of the European and North American, who are also lessees of the Piscataquis road, desired members of the city Government to make their inspection before the fall of snow, so that there shall be no question as to the quality of the road when a call for $15,000 a mile in city bonds is made in accordance with the action taken some years since and more recently reaffirmed.

It is understood that for the remaining 22 miles of the road, the Company hope to receive an addition of $3,000 a mile, making $18,000 in all per mile, on account of the greater difficulty claimed to be involved in the work of construction.

After their long walk and ride, the excursionists about 50 in number, had developed a most ferocious appetite for which a bountiful dinner at the Turner House Guilford, was made to suffice. Conductor Swan, one of the oldest and most popular employes of the road run the excursionists up to Guilford and back, on the return getting into Oldtown in time to connect with the evening train from St John the party reaching Bangor at 6 1/2 P M.

THE REFORM CLUB

Yesterday afternoon about 40 members of the Reform Club marched down Main street in a body and thence up Hammond street to City Hall, where they took their places on the platform at the commencement of the regular Sunday temperance meeting, at [3] o'clock. The hall was filled at an early hour so that at the hour for opening there was scarcely standing room left. W G S Rice presided and the meeting was opened by the congregation singing The morning light is breaking. Prayer was offered by Mrs Berry of the Ladies Crusade. After singing There is sweet rest in heaven, Rev Dr T[illegible] was called for who very aptly illustrated the way that great reforms have been brought about which were at first considered impossible. He referred to the Reform Club as doing a work which has been considered impracticable. They have begun right; they have begun at the bottom and are building up a pyramid which shall last and be an everlasting glory to Bangor. W A Langley of the Club said he had derived more happiness from being a total abstinence man than from any other source and called upon friends of his to come forward and sign the pledge. Henry A Appleton came forward and the cheers from the audience and added his name to the roll of honor.

The President urged more to take the same stand and several came forward during which the audience sang The [illegible] overflowing.

Henry Hill Secretary of the Club made a statement with reference to the organization [illegible] [illegible] the Club is a body of reformed drunkards. He [illegible] asserting that it is a body of men who have been more [illegible] addicted to the use of intoxicating liquor who have now [illegible] themselves to go to do right. Their work is to reset others [illegible] no matter how low they [illegible] [illegible] They are men [illegible] who have fallen, not because they have been [illegible] ed to drink to excess but to save [illegible] by their example.

Capt James M Davis said [illegible] to the Club was because he [illegible] many of his friends had joined before. He [illegible] did not want to be a [illegible]

CONTEMPLATED RAILROAD CHANGE

It is stated that [illegible] important changes [illegible] of the Maine Central [illegible] [illegible] in Bangor and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] probably be made [illegible] the [illegible] not important alteration [illegible] running of the Pullman train which now leaves Bangor at 8 o'clock [illegible] evening and arrives here early in the morning. By this arrangement merchants and others can have a day in Boston, having no time on the way while those coming from the west bound eastward make close connections with the St John train which leaves in the morning. According to the proposed arrangement the Pullman train will leave Bangor at 6 o'clock P. M. instead of 8 o'clock arriving in Boston very early in the morning and leaving Boston at midnight will arrive here at 11.30 A. M. It is understood the object is to obviate the necessity of continuing to run a few local trains including those between Augusta, Portland and [illegible] points westward and to force those [illegible] into the Pullman train. The hours of leaving and arriving at all stations in Maine will be very inconvenient to the travel [illegible] starting from Bangor will be [illegible] not to meet on the [illegible] of the [illegible] up east as to Bangor.

Another [illegible] to through travel resulting from the proposed change will be the compulsory [illegible] of [illegible] at this point between the Maine Central and the European and North American roads [illegible] coming from the East [illegible] will be obliged to remain in Bangor over night while those arriving via the Maine Central [illegible] will be obliged to remain in Bangor either from 11.30 A. M. or 5 P. M. till the next morning. Such interruption to travel while it would be appreciated by [illegible] would be extremely disagreeable to the majority of through passengers who do not enjoy a forced stay in any town even if that town is as charming as the Queen City of Maine.

To obviate the ill effects of such an arrangement the managers of the European and North American would find it necessary to [illegible] some [illegible] between here and St. John or else they might do another thing which has been suggested as feasible, which is to hasten the Bucksport road to completion put on new and fast boats on a line between Bucksport and Boston, make the fare low and so compete with the central route not only in the matter of through travel from the East but also in the patronage of the Bangor public which finds its convenience jeopardized by the new arrangement suggested.

The Brattleboro Phoenix predicts that the result in Massachusetts will hardly tend to encourage the effort to get a State constabulary in Vermont.

The Cleveland Leader calls attention to the fact that in 1862, right in the midst of the rebellion the copperhead Democracy carried Ohio, and elected all the Congressmen but five. The following year however the Republicans carried the State by over 100,000 majority. So in New York, in 1862, Horatio Seymour was elected Governor, but the following year the Republicans carried the State by an overwhelming majority.

On hearing the report that John Morrissey wants to be Seargeant-at-Arms for the Democratic House of the Forty-fourth Congress, the Washington Star is led to wickedly remark: If John succeeds in buying the property on Capitol Hill, for which he is negotiating a purchase with the view to establish a club house, he will always know where to find the absentees when there is a call of the House.

OBITUARY. William H Hemenway, Esq whose death occurred at his residence in this town last Wednesday night was widely known as one of the most enterprising business men in Washington County. His lumbering operations on the Machias river have always been large, and have required the employment of much labor. His death was quite sudden, although he had been subject more or less to severe attacks of illness. He might properly have been called an invalid for many years. He was a man of generous impulses and will be much missed in Machias.—Machias Republican.

The water in St. John river is so low that steamers are not able to run to Woodstock.

The Citizens' Lumber Report, of Ottawa Canada, says shipping continues very active. Trade has not been so brisk during the whole season as at present.

THE DEAD SUMMER.

Along the wayside and up the hills
The golden-rod flames in the rain,
The last sun-eyed gentian nods good-byes
To the aster, lilac-cheeked and pale,
And my summer's done, said I,
Summer is done.

In yellowing wood the chestnut drops,
The squirrel gorges for storms,
Though bright-petaled lads and little maids
Dot like pins the leafless stones,
And so summer's on, said I,
Summer is on!

Chilly nights the swallows begin
To dance in gold and red,
As in the sun the fire-birds nest
Sow ripe cozy promises.
And so summer's dead, sadly said I,
Summer is dead!

The barberry lights her jewels out,
And purple trails with a thorn
The merry farmer sweeps down
The popcorn dried in the corn.
And so summer's gone, said I,
Summer is gone!

The swallows and the bobolinks
Are gone this many a day
But in the mornings all I hear
The scolding sweet-pea jay!
And so summer's away, said I,
Summer's away!

A wonderful sky gilds the air
And bright and bright is the sun
A sowing hand for the year's new bloom each
A garment of beauty has spun;
But for all that summer's gone, said I,
Summer is done!

LATE OR EARLY LAMBS.

The time is near at hand when sheep breeders and woolgrowers must make their plans for marketing or increasing the number of the flock by rais ng lambs. It is a question upon which there is a difference of opinion, when her the lambs should be dropped at the barn in April, or even at an earlier date or not until the ewes are well at the pastures in the month of May.

An April lamb if it has a good chance, is a heavier and better developed lamb in autumn, and comes to the barn more vigorous and in better condition to endure the rigors of the climate, than a May lamb, or one born a month or six weeks less of age. We are led to the belief that such lamb stands a better chance to make a large, strong, healthy sheep than a May lamb. The query then arises at once why not have all the lambs dropped at the barn in March and April? The answer is that the cost of wintering the ewes in condition to breed early is slightly greater, and the cost of keeping them to make a thin prior to and after lambing is one nearly much heavier, and the care of all our lambs requires additional labor—more than a great deal—while those ewes that drop their lambs in the pasture need but little care, and if the weather is favorable may be allowed to run in the pastures day and night.

In practical section is with other than the worth enough more to pay the extra cost.

In the efforts to throw light upon that question we say, with this proposition. The farmer who has no stock must begin every season a effort to improve the character and quality of the animals by breeding and rearing, in such a way as to develop all good and to get rid of the bad. If at the end of any season any animal proves to deteriorate who is in all respects inferior to the same each succeeding one also to be inferior to the last until they become "run out."

Now, if the farmer is so situated that he can, or is he that his circumstances are favorable to the rearing of early lambs, then he should by all means make the best of the resources at his command.

If the ewes come to the barn in strong condition and are well fed, and waste out and house, and also get plenty of exercise they will be in good condition to bear strong lambs, and at the barn and to winter them well. If in this farmer should have forage, all the while of food and after lambing, until the ewes go to pasture plenty of bright early cut clover hay, a little regular daily feed of oats or barley with perhaps a little bran and if possible, a daily feed of roots—sugar beets turnips or mangel. If this new a sufficient ration the ewes will thrive and their lambs they should have warm quarters well ventilated and well drained, bedded so as to be always dry under foot. Ewes lambing at the barn need a great deal of room.

It pays the best in the long run to raise the best and it is usually the fault of the farmer if he is not prepared to do it. If from the other hand, the breeds or ewes come up in low condition, and if March or April is likely to find them the same (and it is pretty certain to be so) and if the lay is made of poor quality of grass or weeds late cut or poorly cured bright, or if any of the above-named out essentials are lacking then the early lambs if they do not die, will get stunted and be of little use. In such case the lambs had be left entire after July and made of May in the pastures and make the best of it.—Record and Farmer.
